The summer of 2003 we had a play structure installed in our playground. The children love it and to date we have found it very safe. Years prior, winter we always had trouble with children slipping and sliding in their winter boots when the snow gets on the plastic decks. Our new equipment has the best deck surface. It has a surface that allows children the safety in all types of weather. We have not had any safety concerns with children using the play structure in the winter months.

If you have any further questions please feel free to contact me.
